

Germany's most modern flight simulator opened for public

Starting now, everybody can take off in the heart of Berlin city: Since July 2013, aviare consult GmbH exclusively operates Germany's first flight simulator based on a motion platform (full flight simulator devices excluded). Located in the center of Berlin, everybody can experience what it takes to fly an airliner.

The simulator, housed within a modernized hall, is available to all aviation enthusiasts interested. A personal flight experience is not mandatory. Included in one flight hour (EUR 179,-) are non-alcoholic drinks, a flight-related briefing as well as a briefing instructing the basic functions of the aircraft. Afterwards, the guest will be guided into the state-of-the-art cockpit of a Boeing 737-800. Our philosophy states, that every guest should have the effective time booked inside the cockpit (min. one hour). Under professional supervision by special trained staff, every flight is highly individualized following the needs and desires of the customer: No matter if a complete revenue flight or special approach and landing training, with more than 20.000 airports simulated worldwide, the customer has a huge variety to choose. On request, special emergency situations (i.e. smoke in the cockpit, engine failures, rapid decompression) can be simulated, too.

After takeoff, the customer will forget that he still has his feet on the ground: Due to the motion, the flight experience will become even more realistic! Feel the motion impact while steep turns or turbulences...you will think yourself into a 737 cockpit! Not for nothing, this simulator is used for professional pilot training also!

Attending the customer, up to two guests can take a seat within the simulator for free! Outside the system, further up to five additional guests can following the flight through a big screen out of a comfortable lounge!

Apart from the full equipped simulator, aviare also offers a reduced 737NG single-seat-training device ("Jetstream"). Perfect adaptable for a first trial session into the fascinating world of flight simulation, this device is available for booking for a real affordable price of EUR 49,- per hour. Due to its modulated construction, this device is mobile and can be also rented at your site! What about a real eye-catcher highlight for your next party or company incentive?!

Apart from single, hourly-based rents, aviare also offers to conduct whole events up to 35 persons. What about having the party at our site, direct at our simulators?
